ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETE FOR SECOND DANCE

Will Start Promptly At 8.15
To-Night.

LEBARON'S ORCHESTRA

Great Music, Fine Floor,
Excellent Refreshments and No Crowding.

The second informal dance of the session will be held in the hall-room of the McGill Union at 8.15 to-night. The tickets for this function were all bought up within a short time after they were put on sale; several men were disappointed who hoped to secure admission at the last moment. Only 150 couples will be admitted. Over-crowding will thus be obviated. This dance, like the last, will be strictly informal in nature. The ball-room is somewhat disordered at present owing to boxing, wrestling and football practices having been held in it during the last two weeks, but it will be put into shape during the day, and the floor will again be glistening, polished slip-way for big feet and dainty slippers.

Music will be furnished by Karl LeBaron and his dance orchestra, including George Cloutier at the piano, Moore Kelly on the banjo, Nadeau wielding the odd saxophone and A. B. Copping tearing off jingling and crashing effects on the traps. This will be the new organization's first appearance at McGill. The artists are men of established reputation in dance orchestra circles, and they will assuredly put up scintillating music which must make even the least musical rhythmic for the time being.

Catering is again in the hands of Mr. Darvill, manager of the Cafeteria. Refreshments at the last dance were above reproach, and they will probably be of the same excellent quality again.

Mrs. MacKay, Mrs. Whitnall, Mrs. Nicholson, Miss. Touren and Miss Newham have kindly consented to act as patronesses.

The programme follows:—
Extra One-step.

1. Waltz.
2. Fox Trot.
3. One-step.

NEW PH. DEGREE IS ESTABLISHED

English Universities Have Degree and Show Requirements.

As a result of a recommendation made early in 1918 by the Prime Minister's Committee upon the position of Natural Science in the Educational System of Great Britain the doctor of philosophy degree, so long identified with Germany in its origin and traditions, and with America in its adoption and widespread prestige has been established in most of the universities in Great Britain. This step may be regarded as a move to attract American students in increasing numbers from the German institutions.

The requirements for the degree are substantially uniform for all the institutions which will confer it. The applicant for admission to study for the degree must have graduated at a university agency having the degree in charge, and must be at least 21 years of age, but Bristol, Durham, Glasgow, London and Manchester set no minimum age limitation.

Research is expressly laid down as the fundamental characteristic of the course, many of the universities having issued supplementary pamphlets setting forth the requirements for the degree under the title "Facilities for Advanced Study and Research." The particular subjects and their combinations are in all cases in the discretion of the university authorities. All the municipal instructions permit, even encourage, the student to spend not more than a year at other institutions after the completion of one year of work.

LOCATION OF PLAY-OFF NOT YET DECIDED

McGill and Varsity At a Deadlock.

BURNING QUESTION.

McGill Team Has Excellent
Chances No Matter Where Game Is Played.

No announcement has been made regarding the play-off for the inter-collegiate Rugby championship. Tomorrow Queen's will meet Toronto in the home town of the latter College, and, when the result of the game is known, something definite can be decided. Of course, nobody doubts what the result of the game will be, but nothing can be done officially until to-morrow night.

It is considered even more improbable that Queen's should succeed in winning to-morrow afternoon. This is especially true, inasmuch as their intermediates are playing the first game of a home and home series for the intermediate championship in the morning. In order to capture at least one title, it is only natural that they will put every available man in the morning contest. This will deprive the seniors of their spares, as well as some of the men who were playing as regulars on the senior team towards the end of the season. The intercollegiate ruling allows any man to play intermediate who has not played more than one senior game during the season.

At the present time Varsity seems to be putting off making a decision in order to force a toss for the choice of place, as they did in 1914. This the McGill team has refused to accept, and they are not very likely to change their minds on the subject. Toronto has expressed a preference for Kingston, if it is not impossible to toss for the choice of place. The McGill officials have already explained that they would be only too willing to play in Kingston, but there is no place in that town where a crowd of any size could be accommodated. If the new Stadium were completed, Kingston might be the place chosen.

McGill has suggested Ottawa as the place for the play-off. Why Toronto should object to the choice cannot be understood. It is the logical neutral point. Situated about half-way between the two Colleges, the city is big enough to turn out a large crowd at the contest, and at the same time the hotel accommodation is sufficient to handle the influx of people to see the game. In addition, there is a large ground in that city with sufficient accommodation to hold a crowd of almost any size.

Yesterday the team started heavy work again. After holding a short signal practice the team was lined up against the intermediates. They went through their formations with a snap that promises well for their success next week. The men will keep up heavy scrimmage work for three or four days, and then will gradually (Continued on Page 2.)

THE "Y" CAMPAIGN.

As it is desirable that a detailed report of class-collections in all classes of the University be published in to-morrow's issue, class-captains are requested to report to Strathcona Hall between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. the exact amounts collected to date.

THE BASEBALL CLUB IS NOW GOING STRONG

Enthusiastic Meeting At the Union Yesterday.

PRESIDENT ELECTED.

Inter-Class Schedule Will Start On Wednesday,
November 17th.

The 1920-21 Indoor Baseball season has started with a swing. Yesterday the club held an enthusiastic meeting in the Union for the purpose of making arrangements for the season's programme and of electing men to fill two vacancies which have occurred in the executive. The results of the election were as follows: E. M. Cockshutt was chosen to be president of the club, and L. N. Zinc, vice-president.

The following faculty representatives have been elected to the committee: Fraser, for Arts; Bussiere, for Medicine, and Wilson for Law. Representatives of Science and Dentistry have not yet been appointed.

The interest that is being shown in this branch of athletics is evidenced by the number of teams entered for the Inter-Class League. Fourteen teams have been entered this year. Last year there were only eight. From the players on these class teams it is hoped that two teams will be picked to represent McGill in the City League.

The Inter-Class League schedule has been made out as follows:
Nov. 17—Meds. '22 vs. Dents. '22.
Nov. 19—Sci. '22 vs. Sci. '23.
Nov. 24—Meds. '24 vs. Meds. '25.
Nov. 26—Comm. '22 vs. Arts '22.
Nov. 31—Comm. '23 vs. Arts '23.
Dec. 2—Law '21 vs. Law '23.
Dec. 7—Arts '21 vs. Dents. '24.

A draw will be made for a bye in the second series. It is probable that the majority, if not all, of these games will be played in the Molson Hall. This gymnasium numbers amongst its defects the fact that there is no accommodation for spectators. The supporters of the various teams will therefore be unable to encourage their men by their presence at the games, and when it comes to settling bets they will have to accept the evidence of the players themselves as to who won.

The president of the club wishes to remind the members thereof that it is absolutely necessary for everyone who is going to play to be medically examined first.

FENCERS SHOWING MARKED INCREASE

Sabre-Fighting May Be Feature This Year.

Instead of decreasing, as is usually the case, the large number of fencers who turned out for the first practice was considerably augmented at the practice held in the basement of the Union yesterday afternoon. Between twenty-five and thirty were present, which constitutes a record for the Fencing Club for many years.

Under the direction of Mr. Raimond, the men were put through a brisk work-out in the first principles of the game. There is a noticeably marked amelioration this year with regard to the speed with which the would-be fencers are being put through.

A few chance enquiries have brought to light the fact that two or three of the men new to the club this year have had previous experience in sabre-fighting, a branch of fencing which has not been taken up by the B. W. and F. for some years past. In the past the fencers were unable to send a complete team to the intercollegiate Assault-at-Arms owing to the lack of the necessary men trained in sabre fighting. This year a full team will in all probability be entered.

Students interested in fencing, but who have not turned out with the club so far, are reminded of the fact that the preliminary routine training under a competent instructor is indispensable; in consequence of which it has been found necessary to set a definite time-limit after which date it will be impossible to enroll further aspirants.

CASE

McGILL THE COLLEGE MEN OF CANADA

McGill men, like young men in general, and college men in particular the world over, are men who insist upon neat appearance and quality in apparel. "Clothes make the man" may have attained a bromide status as an expression; nevertheless they surely help.

The Case Shop in its six years of catering to the well-dressed young men of Montreal, has included in its exclusive clientele hundreds of McGill men, through an ever-growing realization that modesty, quality and style are invariably combined in Case apparel.

Society Brand clothes—hand tailored to an exacting specification—the only clothes we sell—are sold by Case, because they coincide with the mark we have set in the retailing of nothing but the best. The values offered at present are unsurpassed, we believe, by any clothing offer in Canada to-day. A glance at our present price list will convince you.

SNEAK THIEVING: A REMEDY

It is regrettable that we should have to note dishonesty among McGill men, but it is a fact that during the last two days three overcoats and a number of loose-leaf notebooks have disappeared from the cloak room of the Union.

We are loath to believe that students of our University would stoop to such despicable actions. It seems unfortunate indeed that McGill should have to shelter men whose moral standards are so low as to allow them to steal the property of others. If we could believe that the culprit or culprits were other than McGill men, we should be greatly relieved. But no suspicious-looking strangers have been seen around the Union during the last two days, and there is every reason to believe that the criminal is a member of the University.

Such conduct on the part of McGill men is unusual, and calls for unusual remedies. If the culprit can be discovered he will certainly receive exemplary punishment. Sneak thieving will not be tolerated within the walls of the University and no clemency will be shown men who resort to these practices.

As regards the Union itself, it was suggested at the general meeting of the Students' Society in October that a checking system be inaugurated so that men may leave their outer clothing and books in safety while they are in the building. Owing to freedom from trouble of this nature in the past, it was thought unnecessary to provide against dishonesty which did not exist. But since there is an individual among the students such as the one who has evidently removed these articles, provision of some sort must be made, and that at once, to obviate any chance of a repetition of the offence.

We cannot urge too strongly upon the authorities the necessity of protecting the property of the students and of punishing severely anyone who is so lacking in honor and decency as to commit depredations upon his fellows. As a University we must exact high moral qualities from our fellows, and we can ill afford to have a stain upon the student-body such as the blot of theft. As men we do not want to feel that we have among us one who lacks the cardinal virtues of manhood, honesty.

R. V. C. NOTES

A meeting of R. V. C. '24 was held in the Mathematics room at 1 o'clock yesterday (Thursday). After a short discussion the president called for a show of hands to decide the matter of a Gymnastic Demonstration. The majority voted for the demonstration. The meeting then adjourned.

This is to remind you of the meeting to-day at 12 noon, in the Common Room.

Owing to unpleasant events subsequent to the death by starvation of the late Lord Mayor of Cork, Terence MacSwiney, the Bell Telephone Company of the city of Cork has deemed it advisable to change the telephone number of his late residence from MacSwiney-eighty-eight to MacSwiney-eighty-four. It is hoped this will save misunderstanding in the future.

Correspondence

To the Editor "McGill Daily."
Dear Sir,—
With your kind permission, and in a spirit of helpful criticism, I should like to suggest to the Union House Committee that the floor of the ballroom be not polished to such an extent to-night, that couples will have difficulty in keeping from skidding upon it.

I know it is difficult to regulate the slip of a floor, and there is nothing more disagreeable than a floor to which one sticks, but I am sure a slight modification of the usual finish will be much appreciated.

Thanking you for your space, Mr. Editor,
I am,
Yours truly,
CHIP.

To the Editor "McGill Daily."
Sir,—

I was very sorry to see in this morning's "Daily" another letter directed against the apparent inactivity of the Western Club, and alleging "incapacity" on the part of the Executive.

No man regrets more than myself the fact that the Club has not yet had a regular meeting this year. Nevertheless, I feel very strongly that Club members having elected their officers should be content to leave in their hands and to their judgment the making of arrangements for the season. The Society was good enough to re-elect me as their President for this year, and I trusted that I had the confidence of all the members.

I have to-day resigned from that position, simply for the reason that I have no intention whatever of acting as leader of a social organization through which runs a current of "anonymous dissatisfaction." I draw the line very clearly between "anonymous dissatisfaction" and "criticism," for I would have welcomed any real suggestions in overcoming difficulties which have faced the Executive. Perhaps with another leader such difficulties could have been overcome. I can only assure all Westerners that I have had the best interests of the Club at heart.

I stand by everything I said in my previous letter, and will cheerfully prove the truth of every statement made. Further explanations were published yesterday. I use the word "explanations" advisedly, for at no time have the Executive had occasion to offer "excuses," as alleged by your correspondent.

Arrangements have been made for the opening supper on the 24th. Every effort has been made to secure a dance, and I trust that the result of such efforts will be satisfactory. If at any time, in an unofficial capacity, I can do anything whatever to further the interests of the Club, I will be delighted to do so.

Faithfully yours,
ROBT. S. O'MEARA.

To the Editor "McGill Daily."

Dear Sir,—
It was with intense surprise that I noticed that no reference was made in Thursday's "Daily" to the visit to our city of the party of famous movie stars who accompanied Marcus Loew on Wednesday.

Such a great event, which seems to have overshadowed all Armistice preparations, certainly should have been given a wonderful write-up in our College paper, and especially so, as McGill seems to have been so well represented in the reception and entertainment given the fair visitors.

It has been stated on good authority that representatives of the "McGill Daily" were present to write up the event but as yet no word has appeared in your columns.

What were those noted journalists doing all day and why have no eulogy of the smooth dames been published in our pages?

Yours truly,
A. QUESTION.

LOCATION OF PLAY-OFF YET NOT DECIDED

slacken up their speed as the time for the game approaches. This was found to be a successful method last week and will be continued.

Shaughnessy has been working out some new formations during the past few days, and is now instructing the team. It is recognized that our coach has no peer at the Canadian game, and he has worked harder than ever this year to give the team the benefit of his experience. Never has a McGill team received better instruction than has the present outfit. The coaching is not confined to trick plays as many seem to think, but the greater part of the time is spent in teaching the players the fundamentals of the game. It is in the knowledge of the fine points of the game that many of our teams have had the edge on their opponents.

Of course, the coach does not neglect to instruct the men in trick plays. This is an essential part of Rugby as it is played at the present time. Very few teams have been able to solve "Shag's" trick until it was too late to do them any use, and many outfits with better individual players than McGill were defeated because of their inferior team play.

The students are all awaiting the announcement of the ticket sale for

NOTICES

MECHANICAL CLUB.

On Friday evening, Nov. 19th, the students will be the guests of the Temple and after the service a reception will be held in the Lecture Hall of the Temple, at which refreshments will be served and an opportunity given to meet our members. ### IMPORTANT NOTICE.

Students of the first and second years who are participating in competitive athletics in lieu of gymnasium work can receive credit for attendance only under the following conditions:

1—Attendance must be reported to the Coach or Club representative at the time of the game or practice.

2—The Coach or Club representative must hand in to the office of the Department of Physical Education on Monday of each week, a signed statement showing the correct initials, Faculty, year and the number of attendances for each student for the preceding week.

Over thirty names have been received up to the present but the exact number has not yet been determined. Names will be received up to Monday next on which date the final arrangements will have to be completed. All up for a good time the play-off, and it is expected that the team will have the largest following in the history of the game. If the game is played away from home it is expected that morning lectures will be suspended next Saturday.

and keep the spirit of the "BOU" lively in old McGill.

CLUB EXECUTIVES.

No parcels for clubs or societies will be accepted by the Porters in the Union unless arrangements are made beforehand by the executives of these clubs.

DENTAL SOCIETY.

There will be a meeting of the Dental Society to-night, usual time and place. Dean Thornton's brother will speak on "Plastic Models and Facial Restoration as used in France and its application to (something or other) Dentistry."

Every dental student is strongly recommended to be present. The subject is both interesting and important.

USHERS.

All men who acted as ushers at last Saturday's game are requested to immediately call at the office of the Secretary of the Students' Council, if they have not already done so.

A. C. L. FOOTBALL.

There will be a practice of the Arts-Commerce-Law football team on the old Campus at two o'clock this afternoon.

ARTS '19.

All former members of Arts '19, or men who were in any way connected with Arts '19, and who are interested in a re-union of the class, are asked to give in their names to E. D. Mills of the Faculty of Medicine, or John Ritchie of the Faculty of Law. A re-union dinner will be held in the Union in the near future.

ERRATUM.

Owing to misunderstanding of the judges' verdict on the debate held in the Union Wednesday night the score was published in the "Daily" as Medicine 125, Science 150. Science 150 should be 115. The debate was very close, and it was quite natural that the reporter should have made this error. As a result of the misunderstanding Science was reported as the victor, and Divorce as having lost. This is just contrary to what actually occurred. Medicine won 125 to 115, and it was resolved that Divorce is not a menace to civilization and should not be discontinued by every effort of State and Church.

McGILL RIFLE CLUB.

The annual Inter-Year Rifle competition will be held to-morrow afternoon, weather permitting. All members should come out to shoot for their year. Non-members will be welcomed. Entrance fee 50 cents. Meet at Arts Building at 2.15 sharp. Team captains should phone Mr. R. S. O'Meara, Up. 1391W, between 6.15 and 6.45 this evening.

MANDOLIN CLUB.

There will be a rehearsal on Nov. 18th, at 8 p.m.

HOSPITALITY.

To break the dull round of a boarding house existence, and to provide a bit of the home touch during the session, a large number of families in the city have expressed the desire to get to know McGill men.

The McGill "Y" Hospitality Committee has arranged a scheme to link up such families with the students on Sunday afternoons.

Members of the committee will be on duty in Room "B" at the Hall on Fridays between 4.30—6.30, and will be glad to outline their plans and make arrangements for any Sunday.

FOUND.

A fountain pen has been found. The owner may have it by proving property at the Registrar's office.

FOUND.

Found in the Union cloakroom, a green raincoat. The owner can have same by applying at the cigarette counter.

LOST.

A Sprague Kennedy Story

"I tell you, you insufferable ass," began Sprague, "that I can explain—"

"Ho, you can explain, can you?" retorted our captor. "Perhaps you can explain these lead quarters I found in your pockets," and he pulled forth four coins of dull and sickly hue.

At the sight of them, Sprague seemed to go frantic. He strained at his bonds till his face and neck grew purple, without producing the slightest sign of compassion in the man in blue.

"Aha, my hearties," he cried, "you're each due for a good long term for this. And me—I'll get a promotion sure. Why—"

His words were cut short by the violent entry of a man he had never seen before, yet who seemed strangely familiar. He was short and red-headed; his eyes were blue, and as he opened his mouth I saw that one of his front teeth was filled with gold. It was the counterfeit spoken of by Gastritis!

As soon as he saw the group of us he broke into violent language. "What in the deuce," he roared to the policeman, "are you doing with these men? These aren't the chaps I told you of at all!"

"Aha!" said Sprague, darting an angry glance at the mistaken one. "You see? Release me, instantly!" With very bad grace our captor did so, and we stood free.

"There is a mistake here," went on Kennedy. "My friends—" he looked round for Count Urfeiter and I. Weymann. "They were gone! So was Gastritis!"

"This is most remarkable," said the detective. "But I'm sorry to say I must have you placed under arrest for counterfeiting, on the testimony of Gastritis and his friends, and—"

"Arrest me!" howled the red-headed man. "Well, I like that! I'm the head of the provincial police, you idiot! Those men, Gastritis, Count Urfeiter and I. Weymann, are the heads of the smartest counterfeiting gang in the country!"

"Kindly control yourself," said Sprague stiffly. "It seems that once again by your clumsy methods my plans have been brought to naught and the criminals have escaped. Please explain to this man who I am, and allow me to proceed home."

"It's all right, Johnson," said our interlocutor to the policeman, and tapped his head as if to show that Kennedy was a man of deep thought. "Let them go this time. But really it's too bad to have everything spelt this way. Here I've been in here every day for a month, spotting these guys, and to-day I had the goods on them,—and then you come in and mix everything up."

"Bah!" snorted my friend. "The same old cry. But give me back my four coins, please. Lead is worth something, you know."

The policeman almost flung the

DENTAL SOCIETY MEETING TO-NIGHT

Dean Thornton's Brother Will Give Interesting Lecture.

To-night the Dental Society is to be honored by an address from Dean Thornton's brother. This will take the form of a lecture on plastic models and facial restoration as used in France and its relation to (something-or-other) Dentistry. This is a comparatively new department of medical science. It was developed enormously during the war, and some remarkable operations were performed on shattered faces which resulted in making these look almost normal again.

This branch of surgery is closely connected with Dentistry, and dentists of the future will find it advisable, if not necessary, to be well informed on the subject.

Every member of the society is strongly urged to be present at the meeting.

money at us, and we strode from the well-nigh ruined shop. As we walked up the street, I was reminded of something that had not yet been explained. "How was it, Sprague," I said, "that you repelled that ruffian when he sprang at you?"

He smiled gently, and took out of his pocket the little tube I had remarked before. It was about four inches long and half an inch wide. Clear glass made up about half its length, the rest being composed of vulcanite. Kennedy showed me a lever in the side, which could be used to expel the contents in a thin stream. "What is inside?" I asked, breathless.

"Merely the juice of a grape-fruit, the most corrosive fluid known to science," he observed, with a grin. "Sprague," cried I, "you are wonderful!"

WESTERNERS LOSE GAME TO EASTERN TEAM

Maritimers Champions Of Sectional League.

SCORE: 8-0.

Easterners To Be Guests Of Other Rugger Clubs At Approaching Dinner.

The old campus was the scene of an exciting game of Rugger yesterday afternoon when the Westerners lined up against the Easterners for the crucial game of the season. Despite the slippery condition of the ground, the spectators who turned out were treated to a very snappy brand of Rugger. Both teams were at their strongest, and a very clean exhibition of Rugger was staged.

During the first half of the game the play was centred around mid-field, and neither side made much headway. The Maritimers, however, had the ball most of the time, but were never able to make much progress because of the splendid tackling of the Western three-quarters. At one time it looked as if the Westerners would go over for a touch when their forward line dribbled the ball to within a few yards of the Easterners' line. The Eastern full-back however, was on the job, and broke up the combination. During this half a good deal of fumbling took place and this resulted in gains chiefly for the West.

The second period began with a better brand of Rugger. Several players were shifted around on both teams, and this resulted in more effectual combination work. The West kicked off, and Trites, who made a pretty catch, plunged through the Western line for a gain of twenty yards. Shortly after, MacKinnon, the speedy Eastern man, got the ball on a clean pass from Lawrence, and went forward to within the five-yard line before he was brought down. J. Macintosh then went over for a touch which was converted by MacKinnon.

The score at this point was 5-0, for the East. From then on until the end the Westerners did their best to break through, but on every occasion were prevented by the good work of the Maritime three-quarters at tackling. Soon MacKinnon, of the East, again figured on the horizon. On a pass from Lawrence he dodged through the Western line and reached the 25-yard line before he was checked. Lauty then got the ball on a pretty pass from MacKinnon, and by a brilliant piece of straight arm checking went over for the East's second touchdown. Clarke failed to convert.

For the Westerners, Helmcken, Day and Whidden did effective work. For the Maritimers, MacKinnon, Kelly, Macintosh, Lauty and Lawrence were the outstanding stars. Just before half-time, Whidden, a Western man, received a severe blow, but he continued to play, and played a stellar game throughout.

Prof. Matthews, of the Arts faculty, refereed, to the entire satisfaction of all.

It is understood that the executive of the English Rugby Club are making arrangements for a dinner to be held soon, at which the Maritime team will be the guests of the other teams constituting the Sectional League.

The line-ups were as follows:

The originator, if not the author, of this finely phrased missive was the poet laureate, Robert Bridges, whom certainly none could accuse of being lukewarm in patriotism.

MAN OF FAME WILL ADDRESS COMMERCE MEN

Important Meeting To Be Held Next Tuesday.

WATCH MONDAY DAILY.

Members Should See That Their Fees Are Paid.

The Commercial Society will hold the first meeting representative of its policy on Tuesday, November 16th. This meeting will be truly typical of its efforts on behalf of its members. The last meeting was more or less informal, for the purpose of meeting the faculty and for beginning a closer intimacy between the years. This one will be such as the executive is planning for the winter's programme. A prominent speaker has been secured for the evening whom one would not be likely to hear elsewhere. It is a real privilege for Commerce men to hear a speaker of national reputation like this. His name may not be divulged here, but will be definitely announced in Monday's "Daily."

The results of the campaign for members was very gratifying, but there are some men yet who have promised to tender their fee and who have not yet done so. The executive would appreciate a prompt payment of fees to clear up accounts and make some basis on which to judge the necessary expenditures for the season.

A placard in the Arts Building has attracted considerable notice during the past week. A repetition of the thoughts thereon would not, perhaps, be out of place.

Commercial Society of McGill University. Commerce men—Do you realize—

That—You do not come to college to absorb knowledge like blotting paper?

That—A man at college without outside interests is passing up the best opportunities of his career?

That—Your first duty is toward your own Undergraduate organization—the Commercial Society?

That—It has asked for your wholehearted support, and so far has but meagrely received it?

That—Subscriptions are now payable to your class representatives?

That—It's up to you?

Some men complained that they were not given notice of the last meeting. First of all, read your "Daily." This is the first means taken to tell you of the club's activities. Second, read all placards and notices of the Commercial Society. Then you won't miss the meetings in future.

Keep the date open, then, Commerce men. Tuesday next, November 16, at 8.15 p.m., in the Union. Further information in detail will appear in Monday's issue.

There are many flood-tides in the affairs of men at this stage of the world's development.

THE SONGS OF HI O'WATERS By Erco.

Hi O'Waters' Coming.

From the tallest of the timber
From the longest of the grasses
From the furthestmost of backwoods
To the country of the Rah-rahs
Came the dashing Hi O'Waters.
On his back a suit of homespun
In his hair abundant hayseed,
And he wore a handsome bow-tie
Fastened to his collar-button.
Thus arrived the village hellion
From the hinterland afar off
From the distant Chipmunk Corners.
Hi O'Waters looked about him
Learned to quaff the humble "cup-of"

Chose a boudoir near the Kham-p's
(Six by eight, but very cosy) —
From his carpet bag he emptied
All his laces and penates—
Both his collars and his toothbrush
And his glossy, glossy dickie—
Thus was Hi O'Waters settled
In the country of the Rah-rahs.
From among the lusty tribesmen
Gathered privily at night-time
Sophomores, whose name was Terror
To the ones but late arrived
At the camp-fires of the Rah-rahs.
Down they swept upon the Kham-p's
Scragged all-peaceful Hi O'Waters
Dragged him from his bed of shavings
(Whither he at moonrise hid him)
To the paths of light and music.
Even to the dazzling Gardens

There his face with varied pigments
They annotated, and they bade him
Chant the tribe-call of the Rah-rahs,
Which is "Em-zee-jee-yell!"
Holy words, and held as sacred,
Only uttered by the chosen.

Thus the wondrous Hi O'Waters
As a tribesman was admitted
To the circle of the Rah-rahs.

The Spirit of Craftsmanship

Family pride of craftsmanship, patient, careful effort and artistic idealism inspired the master violin makers of Cremona to produce instruments, today priceless in value.

The same standards of artistic achievement, the same family pride is today producing a piano which is as thoroughly a work of art as a famous painting or sculptured monument; a piano which gives pleasure for years after its price is forgotten; a piano which has been praised by great musicians, orchestras, conservatories of music; a piano which belongs in the homes where fine things are appreciated.

ARCHITECTURAL ASSOCIATION MEETS AGAIN

J. Crockett Delivers Interesting Lecture on "Art."

LYMAN IN CHAIR.

Subject of the Address Was Decorative Painting and Architecture.

Wednesday evening in the Architectural Department, the first of a series of addresses was heard by the Architectural Society. The speaker of the evening was J. Crockett, who spoke on "Decorative Painting in Architecture."

The address being but a short one in comparison with the magnitude of the subject, Mr. Crockett did not remark on the historical development of the art, but went into the explanation of the various divisions into which decorative painting can be put, viz.:

1. Straight flat wall decoration.
2. Figure and landscape work.
3. Repeat ornaments.
4. Color phenomenon.

In general, all decoration is regulated by its position, its surroundings (especially of color) and its height and distance from the observer. If the decoration is near some sculpture work it must maintain the same scale. Similarly, in painting, the decoration must be in harmony with its surroundings; that is, the colors used in decoration must be in the same color scale as those around it.

With regard to large flat wall surfaces, Mr. Crockett explained that it was impossible to make them appear anything but flat. Various means have been used to try and overcome this fact, such as tipping or varying the quality of the color. Two methods were illustrated by the speaker for varying the color value, which is especially necessary on surfaces near the observer.

1. The application of the paint without skill.
2. The use of thin paper to draw off some of the color.

Again, the general tendency, in Mr. Crockett's opinion, was to get a decidedly gray effect on such surfaces, which is deadening. Mr. Crockett suggested the use of prismatic complementaries as an undertone to give more life and sparkle to the whole area.

In landscape work introduced as a decorative background, the tree plays a great part, the poplar and the elm being favorite patterns, as a more natural reproduction of them can be made than of others, due to the regularity of the growth and the simplicity of the forms. In using fields, a crazy quilt pattern is often used with effect, care being taken to see that the color is not too heavy.

Mr. Crockett remarked on the misuse to which perspective was put in this landscape work. Many are so made that the decoration really has the appearance of an aperture, and the tendency is to pull the eye outside.

More common are the mistakes made by the use of figures in a domed ceiling. Where large figures are used the observer will get distinctly different and distorted views of what are in reality the same in form. Figure work, according to the speaker, is best used on circular surfaces when it is inserted in small panels which present practically the same appearance when seen from different parts of the hall.

Another factor in the use of the figure is the figure-destroying costume. Generally, costumes are represented by blobs of color upon which any further modelling is done, care being taken in this, as in all work, not to overdo the modelling and have the decoration in appearance jutting out from the wall. The smaller the panel the stronger may be the color and the modelling. The reason for this, on Mr. Crockett's explanation, is that the smaller the decorated surface becomes the more capable becomes the eye of absorbing a strange effect without optical strain.

Repeat ornament is not so happy in paint, in Mr. Crockett's opinion, as the modelled ornament, as it lacks the value of the various cast-shadows, but the value of the outline and shadows is replaced by the modelled effect produced by the proper development of the background.

In color phenomenon Mr. Crockett probably included the peculiar results which are obtained by the use of two or three colors in the place of one, and the great modelling value of color when properly used.

In speaking of the materials used, Mr. Crockett condemned plaster as a background for oil paint or prepared paints unless it was at least four or five years old. It may possibly be used when the work is only of a temporary nature.

The ideal base is a fabric which will receive oil well, and if protected properly at the back by white lead from the lime of the walls, the color remains fast.

As between oil and alabastine and

ALL-MONTREAL TEAM TO PLAY ON SATURDAY

Ottawa Fifteen to Meet Them At Stadium.

WILL BE CLOSE GAME.

Rugger Fans Promised Treat—Number Of McGill Men Included In Team.

All those who scoff at the game of English Rugby, or "Rugger," will have a chance of seeing how the game should be played on Saturday afternoon at the Stadium.

At 3 p.m. a representative team from Montreal will play the best fifteen that Ottawa can produce, and it promises to be a very good game. The All-Montreal team only contains seven McGill men with two spares, so it will be seen that the fifteen must be exceedingly strong if it only needs seven college men to complete the aggregation. The quality of the Ottawa players is not known, but as they have been playing the game longer than most of the clubs down here, the Montreal men will have their work cut out to score a victory.

It has been noticed that all enthusiasts of Canadian Rugby who have never seen a good game of Rugger have not a good word to say for the game, although they have had no opportunity for judging, and are, for the most part, prejudiced against it. It is up to every man who has never seen a game played by experienced teams to turn out on Saturday, and, if after that he thinks Rugger a poor game, he will be entitled to say so. For those that know the game it will be a real pleasure to be there and cheer the Montreal bunch to victory.

Considering that this is the first season Rugger has been played on the campus, the interest and enthusiasm aroused has been great, but it is hoped that next year it will be even greater.

The ground will soon be too hard to play on, and this will be almost the last game of the season, so a good attendance should be secured. The McGill men turning out are: Old Dutch Helmcken, Beveridge, Congleton, Roome, Dobson, Lawrence and Lechead, and two spares, Bradshaw and McDougall.

All out, fellows, to see the bare-kneed brigade.

ODE TO PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY.

My heart's in the movies,
My heart is not here;
This gum-fuzzed lecture
Has a kick like near-beer.
Outside there falls the gentle rain,
I would that I were there.
The semi-permeable membrane
Makes me want to paw the air.
That cuprous ferri cyanide
Has rendered me insane;
I wonder if it will be long
Before I am insane.
I know the warmth of summer
And winter's icy blast.
It won't take long to die from this
I think I'm going fast.
I long the scent of garlic
And the smells that assault the nose.
Physical chemistry gets my goat.
Oh! for the vaudeville shows!
Oh why did they let Dulong and Pettit
Invent all the laws that one knows!
I'd rather be elsewhere now than here
I could even be seen at Loews.

other prepared paints, oils are far superior, as they can be washed over without spoiling, whereas the others may only be washed over once. Also, the oil-prepared surface is not so easily destroyed as the other.

In cost, the material is merely a fraction of the cost of time. In working with alabastine, the material cost is but one-twentieth and in oils but one-fifth of the cost in time.

Here Mr. Crockett spent some time dealing with the methods of various decorators and went on to explain in detail work done in this city of which he showed drawings in color.

In closing, Mr. Crockett stated that an understanding of color and its value was of great importance to the architect, and that if he substituted his interest in the financial and business end of his work for work on the interior decoration, he would probably succeed in removing the smudge of the tee square from his work.

The address was received enthusiastically by a large and appreciative audience. A vote of thanks was moved for the speaker, after which refreshments were served. The freshman class is to be commended upon the manner in which the refreshments were handled.

Mr. Lyman and the executive of the society, together with the Advisory Board, have succeeded in drawing up a very interesting programme for the year. This will be published as soon as all dates are settled.

HARRIER MEET TAKES PLACE ON SATURDAY

Intercollegiate Contest Is Staged In Toronto.

McGILL TEAM CHOSEN.

Victory Will Mean the Third Championship Gained This Season.

Much enthusiasm has been aroused this year over the annual Harrier's meet, which is to be held in Toronto on Saturday morning.

This enthusiasm is especially gratifying to all McGill athletes, but especially to the six men who have gone to represent the Red and White against Varsity, Queen's and R.M.C. in the intercollegiate fixture. These men know that the well wishes of every collegian goes with them, and this will inevitably increase their determination to victory, which is so essential to a competitor in a long distance run.

Competition for a position on the team has been very keen this year, and up till the last trial it was not known who would represent McGill. From 17 to 20 men have been turning out regularly for the practices, and good time has been made in covering the distances.

The picking of the team necessitated anxious and careful thought, not so much for the first four places as for the last two places on the team. Hamilton is without doubt the best long distance runner we have, but he is closely followed by the three next members of the team.

This team, as eventually chosen, consisted of Hamilton, Legge, Stevens, Simpson, Egg and Antliff, the last named being captain.

Although the R.M.C. and Varsity teams opposing us this year are rather a doubtful quantity, the McGill has every hope of retaining the title of Harrier Champions which they now hold. Varsity are credited with having a strong aggregation, which will give some trouble, and R.M.C. with two men who may prove dangerous. About Queen's nothing is known, and for that reason we hope for the best. It is not according to human nature to hide one's light under a bushel, and for that reason we think that if Queen's had an especially brilliant man we would have heard about it.

McGill so far has won the Tennis Tournament and the Track Meet, and we feel sure will win the Football. With these in our pockets, we have only to win the Harrier Meet, Hockey and one or two more, and then we shall have won every intercollegiate trophy for which we have entered.

This may sound too optimistic to be true, but if serious thought be given to it, it will be found that it is not too optimistic, but is quite within the bounds of possibility.

If this wonderful series of victories should occur, we should be able to tell our children of the wonderful year McGill had in 1920-21, and what a large share in her victories we ourselves had. They would not know the difference. Apart from these dreams, we are fairly confident that our Harrier team will clean up on its opponents. But, in any case, win or lose, the members of the team may be assured that Old McGill appreciates the efforts they have put forward on her behalf.

Since there has been such keen competition for the tail of the team, it might be well to print the names of those men who turned out regularly, but failed to make the standard. They are the men who have done work and have not up till now received credit. Without them, there would have been no competition, and competition is the making of a team. Here they are:

- McNider
- Copeland
- E. Bishop
- F. L. Finlay
- Jamieson
- J. C. Webster
- Bishop
- Douglas
- O'Hagan
- Creehan
- Ross

To these men we take off our hats (if we are out of doors) for doing their best for their Alma Mater.

OXONIAN RUGBY PROSPECTS GOOD

Has Plenty Of Talent But Needs Good Three-Quarter Line.

Although first glimpses of the Oxford Varsity trials gave the impression that prospects were not all that could be desired, considerable optimism prevails now that the settling down process has been performed; and, so far as Rugby football is concerned, the players have at least given convincing proof by their victories over the Old Merchant Tailors and the Army that they will develop into a powerful combination. There is some distinctly promising material, and the Dark Blues' team will, provided a good three-quarter line can be found, be quite up to the average; for there is plenty of talent in the pack.

Although there may be many changes before the best scrum is found, D. D. Duncan, the captain, should have little difficulty in sifting out the best. Up to now he must be well satisfied with the form of his team as a whole. In the fixture with the Old Merchant Tailors, the brothers Waldoek were away, but D. A. Waldoek, in the fine win over the Army, showed himself, together with E. Campbell, to be one of the best halves seen on the Ilfley Road ground. Duncan is a fine leader of the pack, and, during the trials, showed himself anxious to give the players the opportunity of extending themselves.

There is little likelihood that E. Campbell will be disturbed at half; but it is evident that he is very apt to sacrifice much for speed. The present halves are the best seen on the Varsity for years; but the three-quarter line is as yet a little uneven. At the back end of last season, P. M. Dixon played many good games; but this season he is in even greater form with plenty of dash and resolution in finishing. His play with Waldoek is little short of superb. As is only natural, there are some who have not yet developed good form, and one of these is V. R. Price, who at times becomes erratic, doing excellent things at one moment and then afterward spoiling his efforts with a certain amount of wildness. Still, he may eventually turn out well, and his showing in the final trial was regarded as only temporary.
